

DISPLAY DEVICE WITH A LUMINOUS DISPLAY BASE

Abstract

A display device includes a display and a display base. The display base includes a housing and a luminous module installed inside the housing for emitting the light. The display includes a first electric connecting port and the display base contains a second electric connecting port for connecting to the first electric connecting port and receiving the electric power from the display to supply the operating electric power of the luminous module.